A Concise Dictionary of Middle Egyptian Reprint Edition
by Raymond O. Faulkner
This concise dictionary of Middle Egyptian contains 5400 carefully selected words most likely to be encountered by students and scholars in the course of their regular work on Egyptian texts. Each entry gives the most common hieroglyphic form of the word, accompanied by its transliteration, translation, references to texts where it occurs, its less usual hieroglyphic variants, and phrases in which it is used. First published in 1962, this Concise Dictionary has become the standard work of reference and is now in its tenth printing. 350p (Peeters Publishers, January 2016, Griffith Institute Publications) hardcover, 9780900416323, $49.00. Amara West III
The Scenes and Texts of the Ramesside Temple by Patricia Spencer
This volume publishes the scenes and texts of the Ramesside Temple at Amara West in Sudan. It was excavated in 1938-39, followed by the excavation of the West Gate between 1947 and 1949. The main decoration dates to the reign of Ramesses II, although most of his Twentieth Dynasty successors are also attested in added texts and scenes. Of particular interest are those that feature Ramesside viceroy of Kush. 250p, 206 pls (Egypt Exploration Society, July 2016, Excavation Memoir 114) paperback, 9780856982279, $159.00. ‘Because I Am Greek’ Polyonymy as an Expression of Ethnicity in Ptolemaic Egypt
by Sandra Coussement Double names are already attested on Old Kingdom funerary monuments, where concern about eternal life required a correct identification of the deceased. When Greek and Egyptian cultures came into contact under the Ptolemies, bilingual polyonymy became more popular. 449p (Peeters Publishers, February 2016, Studia Hellenistica 55) paperback, 9789042932722, $124.00. Naga ed-Deir in the First Intermediate Period
by Edward Brovarski Beginning in 1901, George A. Reisner conducted a number of excavating campaigns in the neighborhood of the modern village of Naga ed-Deir in Upper Egypt, opposite the ancient city of Thinis. This volume endeavors to date the material found by Reisner, including the inscribed stones published by Dunham, with a view to elucidating the history of the site in the period between the Old and Middle Kingdoms. 704p (Lockwood Press, April 2017) hardcover, 9781937040666, $120.00. Peripheral Concerns
Urban Development in the Bronze Age Southern Levant
by Susan Cohen
Peripheral Concerns examines the influence of one “core” region of the ancient Near Eastern world—Egypt—on urban development in the southern Levant in the Early and Middle Bronze Ages, with emphasis on the relative stability and sustainability of this development in each era. The study utilizes a very broad scale “macro” approach to examine urban development using core-periphery theories. 256p, 14 b/w illus (Equinox Publishing, March 2016, New Directions in Anthropological Archaeology) hardcover, 9781781791776, $100.00. Special Offer $80.00

Collections at Risk
New Challenges in a New Environment edited by Claire Derriks Conflicts and wars, and more specifically the 2011 Revolution in Egypt, have brought to light the worrying question of the preservation of the cultural heritage in the world. The organizers devoted the 29th Annual Meeting of ICOM’s International Committee for Egyptology (CIPEG) to the theme of “Collections at Risk.” This volume contains several of the papers and gives a clear example of the multifarious paths that lay open to obtaining the objective of preserving the past for the future. 290p (Lockwood Press, February 2017, Material and Visual Culture of Ancient Egypt 4) paperback, 9781937040604, $49.95. Burial Assemblages from Bab el-Gasus in the Geographical Society of Lisbon
by Rogério Sousa
The objects published in this book belong to the Eighth Lot of antiquities found in Bab el-Gasus, the collective tomb of the priests and priestesses of Amun (Theban necropolis, 21st Dynasty), currently kept at the Geographic Society of Lisbon. In this undisturbed tomb—the largest ever found in Egypt—153 burial assemblages were uncleared. Combining new conceptual frameworks with epigraphic methods of survey, this catalogue proposes a thorough methodology for the textual description and visual documentation of each object. 320p, illus (Brepols Publishers, March 2017, Monumenta Aegyptica 14) paperback, 9782503565750, $112.00. The Berlin-Strasbourg Apocryphon
A Coptic Apostolic Memoir
by Alin Suciu
The incomplete state in which many Coptic writings have survived makes them difficult to assess, and the text studied in this book is no exception. Preserved in two fragmentary manuscripts, the Berlin-Strasbourg-Apocryphon - previously known as the Gospel of the Savior - has been wrongly identified as a second-century gospel which was bypassed in the formation of the Christian canon. Alin Suciu demonstrates that this misunderstanding of the text derives from an insufficient knowledge of Coptic literature. Rather, the Berlin-Strasbourg Apocryphon is one of the numerous “apostolic memoirs,” a peculiar genre of Coptic literature which consists of writings allegedly written by the apostles, often embedded in sermons attributed to famous church fathers.

Laws of Heaven – Laws of Nature / Himmelsgesetze – Naturgesetze Legal Interpretations of Cosmic Phenomena in the Ancient World / Rechtsförmige Interpretationen kosmischer Phänomene in der antiken Welt edited by Konrad Schmid and Christoph Uehlinger
The history of scientific thought in the west recognizes the origin of the idea of “natural law” with the pre-Socratics, Plato, and the Stoics. The legal interpretation of cosmic phenomena stretches back to the ancient Near East and can be found in Old Testament literature. The study taps into a number of important texts and formulates a new approach to the concept of “natural law” in antiquity. English and German text.

Leçons pour apprendre les hiéroglyphes égyptiens by Renaud de Spens
In this book the pedagogy of Egyptology is organized, for the first time, around inscriptions of progressive difficulty — not around grammatical categories. This book is one of the best introductions to the subject as it is accessible for both the amateur interested in discovering the beauty of Egyptian writing and for the student who wants to learn hieroglyphic epigraphy. French text.

Ägyptische Amulette aus Palästina/Israel Band IV Von der Spätbronzezeit IIB bis in römische Zeit by Christian Hermann
This publication deals with ancient Egyptian amulets excavated since 2005 in Israel/Palestine. To make the catalogue complete, the volume further includes amulets kept in museums or private collections in Israel or Europe. The plates show all Egyptian amulets found in Israel/Palestine since 1898 and accessible to the author (a total of 3239 items). They provide a systematic overview of the repertoire of Egyptian amulets from Israel/Palestine, dating from the Late Bronze age to the Roman period. German text.

The Tomb of the Dogs at Asyut Faunal Remains and Other Selected Objects
by Chiori Kitagawa

This study seeks to add to the understanding of the history of Asyut and of archaeofauna by examining the osteofaunal remains from the Tomb of the Dogs on Gebel Asyut al-gharbi, with a particular focus on canids. Its objective is to shed more light on animals in ancient Egyptian society and religion, as well as on the various functions that Gebel Asyut al-gharbi (the western mountain of Asyut) fulfilled throughout the course of history.

Ornamente in Bewegung Die Deckendekoration der Grossen Querhalle im Grab von Djefai-Hapi I. in Assiut
by Jochem Kahl

In the course of the German-Egyptian fieldwork in Asyut from 2012 to 2014, a series of ceiling decorations were discovered in the grave of the ancient regional governor of the area, whose arrangement, motifs, and monumentality offer a wholly new perspective on Egyptian design during the Middle Kingdom. This volume examines their meaning, the movement of individual motifs, as well as the broader context of ceiling-art design in Egypt and the Aegean world during the Middle Kingdom. German text.

Sammelbuch Griechischer Urkunden aus Ägypten Index zu Band XXVIII edited by Andrea Jördens

The “Miscellany of Greek Sources from Egypt” collects variously published texts concerning legal and social sources, business texts, logistics, cultic practices, medicine and natural sciences from papyri and publishes them together in sequential volumes. The texts are in Greek without an accompanying translation; the material is organized alphabetically by the publisher. The present volume offers the indices to volume 28. German text. 137p (Harrassowitz Verlag, April 2016, Sammelbuch Griechischer Urkunden aus Ägypten 29) paperback, 9783447105866, $61.00. Special Offer $49.00

Perspektivenwechsel
Eine Reflexion archäologischen Arbeitens in Ägypten: Die lokalen Grabungsarbeiter des Asyut Project
by Tina Beck

There are numerous publications concerning the archeological discovery of graves in Egypt. Very little mention is made in the scholarly literature, however, about the excavation workers themselves. The author challenges this lacuna and places the excavators of the Asyut Project at the center of its attention. In 21 interviews, the excavators comment on their motivations, perceptions of the division of labor, and comprehension of the project. German text.

Wandering Aramaeans: Aramaeans Outside Syria Textual and Archaeological Perspectives edited by Angelika Berlejung and Jörg Plassen

This volume contains the updated versions of the papers presented at a workshop held in October 2014. The intention of the workshop was to explore Aramean cultures and their impact on their neighbors, including linguistic influences. The division of the volume into the sections “Syria and Palestine” and “Mesopotamia and Egypt” reflects the areas in which the presence of Aramaeans or of their language, Aramaic, in the first millennium BCE is visible. The contributions in this volume show that identifying “Arameans” and defining pertinent identity markers is a difficult task. Interactions between Arameans, including their languages, and their neighbors were complex and depended on specific cultural and historical circumstances.

Alexander the Great and the East History, Art, Tradition
edited by Krzysztof Nawotka and Agnieszka Wojciechowska

Even if Alexander’s rule in Asia has to be approached primarily through the study of Greek and Latin authors, many papers in this volume try to look beyond Arrian, Plutarch, Curtius, and Diodorus to Greek inscriptions, papyri, Egyptian, Babylonian, medieval Syriac and Arabic evidence. One focus is on Egypt, from the XXX dynasty to the Ptolemaic age. A lasting achievement of the early Macedonian age in Egypt is the lighthouse of Pharos, probably devised under Alexander to serve both as a watchtower of Alexandria and the focal point of the fire telegraph.

From Amyrtaeus to Ptolemy Egypt in the Fourth Century B.C. by Agnieszka Wojciechowska

This book covers the history of Egypt between 404 BC and 305 BC. In its reconstruction of the history of Egypt this book attempts to go beyond accounts of classical authors, making use of Greek and Egyptian inscriptions, coins, papyri and archaeologica evidence. Fourth century papyri, largely sale and marriage contracts and tax documents, show economic and everyday life almost undisturbed by warfare.

Ägyptenrezeption im Mumienfilm
The Mummy 1932 und Remakes
by Yvonne Vosmann

The mummy as monster has been a constant theme in the horror genre since the earliest days of cinema in the 20th century. Four mummy-films serve as an important case study for Egyptologists interested in the popularization of Egyptian culture in modern pop-culture media. Vosmann’s examination employs film analysis, which considers the content-aesthetic and formal-technical implementation of the mummy theme. The results of this analysis show that the films are not only situated in a narrative context, but also carry over their underlying concepts through the presentation of an often academically accurate reception of the Egypt-image. German text.
