

The Photographs of the American Palestine Exploration Society

by Rachel Hallote, Felicity Cobbing, and Jeffrey B. Spurr

DESCRIPTION:

"The Photographs of the American Palestine Exploration Society is a solid and useful contribution to a growing field. This volume provides thoughtful and well-produced materials to enable the work to progress." – Simon Goldhill, King's College, Cambridge, Bryn Mawr Classical Review (2013.03.05)

This volume includes over 150 never previously published photographs of archaeological sites in the Middle East (Jordan, Lebanon, Syria, and Israel) taken in 1875 by photographer Tancrede Dumas for the American Palestine Exploration Society.

The volume additionally tells the complete history of the American Palestine Exploration Society, which functioned in the 1870s and worked together with the British Palestine Exploration Fund to survey and map archaeological sites in Ottoman Palestine. The Americans' interactions with the British are examined, and Dumas' photographs are put into a comparative context alongside those of contemporaries such as Bonfils.

These photographs preserve the appearance of many of these sites when they were first seen by westerners, before urban development and tourism changed the nature of the regions. Photographs include the ruins of Baalbek, Jerash, parts of Jerusalem, and numerous other sites.

TABLE OF CONTENTS:

Acknowledgements

Introduction

PART I

Chapter 1
 A Brief History of the American Palestine Exploration Society, 1870-1880

Chapter 2
 Archaeological Photography and the Photography of Tancred Dumas in Context

Chapter 3
 The Itinerary of the 1875 Expedition

Chapter 4
 APES Plans for its Photographs, and a History of the Extant Photographic

Collections

PART II

Catalogue: The Dumas Photographs from the 1875 Expedition

Appendix A

Cross-Reference of Photographic Collections

Appendix B

List of American Palestine Exploration Society Staff and Committee Members in 1875

ISBN:

9780897570985 (hb)

PRICE:

$20.00 (hb)

PUBLICATION DATE:

31 October 2012 (hb)

BINDING:

Hardback

PAGES:

368

ILLUSTRATIONS:

15 b/w figs, 179 b/w pls.

PUBLISHER:

American Schools of Oriental Research

IMPRINT:

American Schools of Oriental Research

SERIES:

Annual of ASOR

READER INTERESTS:

Ancient Near East
Middle Eastern Studies

Appendix C

The 1873 Firman and its Translation

Appendix D

Archival Documents in the Collection of the Palestine Exploration Fund relating to the American Palestine Exploration Society